

Online licensing tool to provide two-way dog info

BY LAUREN SWEENEY

Lost a dog or found another? Soon Westmount-licensed dog owners will be able to alert hundreds of others registered in the city, along with Public Security, by relaying photos and pertinent information.

This is just one of the features of an online tool to be implemented by the city as part of a dog permits management system announced last week to the Independent by Councillor Cynthia Lulham, commissioner of Parks and Sustainability.

The new web-based platform will enable dog owners to obtain annual licences online and interact with the city. It will also allow the city to send out dog-related reminders or notices on dog run closures and manage data on dogs in Westmount.

The system should be ready to use by November in time for obtaining 2017 dog licences, Lulham said.

"This will give us a great way to communicate with dog owners," she said, "especially next year during phase 3 of the restoration of Summit Woods when we'll be closing off certain trails for rejuvenation."

"It offers a number of good features, and I'm very excited by it," added Lulham, who came across the system while attending the annual conference of the Union of Quebec Municipalities in 2015.

While some municipalities on the South Shore use the system, she said, Westmount will become the first on the island of Montreal.

Called Emili.net, the dog permits management system was developed for the municipal sector. Dog owners can choose ei- continued on p. 5

Off-leash dogs take off in 'all directions'

A patroller at the Forde entrance to King George (Murray) Park September 15 spotted a woman with off-leash dogs running "in all directions," Public Security officials said. She finally managed to get three of them back to her car but the fourth one took off running in the street. It took some 10 minutes to bring it back. She was issued a $77 ticket for the dogs being off leash. The woman was described as a professional dog walker living on Hill Park Circle just off Côte des Neiges Rd. She was noticed at 8:18 am.

Man found sleeping in Olivier foyer

Public safety officers report being called at 8:15 pm September 15 for an intoxicated man sleeping between the front doors of the apartment building at 267 Olivier just south of de Maisonneuve.

Department officials said the man provided several contradictory stories but claimed to live in the building though he could not produce a key.

Police were called and were reported to have already had three documented incidents of intervention with the man in the last month. He was finally identified as a 37-year-old Montreal resident.

'New-found' Prince Albert parking spots to disappear

BY LAUREEN SWEENEY

Anyone who may think they have discovered a secret spot to park may be in for a surprise now that no-parking signs have been set up on the west side of Prince Albert from Sherbrooke to the laneway.

The original no-stopping signs at this location alongside the Lululemon building had been removed for reconstruction of the street earlier this summer, according to Public Security director Greg McBain.

When the work was finished, however, it was thought the small zone might be able to accommodate some parking, he said, which is needed in the commercial district.

But once the city's Traffic Advisory Committee saw that three parked cars narrowed the southbound driving lane too much near the intersection of Sherbrooke, it was decided to reinstate the previous no-stopping zone, said city traffic specialist Jonathan Auger.

The appropriate signage will replace the temporary no-parking ones once poles can be installed in the sidewalk, he explained.

Some new spots had been opened up on the north side of Sherbrooke by the implementation of the pay-by-plate parking system, McBain added. The city is on the lookout for more – but the zone at Prince Albert and Sherbrooke has proven not to be one of them.

Temporary no-parking signs were in place September 23 on the west side of Prince Albert, as seen looking south to Sherbrooke.

Cell-less driver distracted by cyclist

A car struck the median on St. Catherine St. at Lansdowne September 13 about 6:56 am, Public Security officials said. The impact blew the front tire on the driver's side and damaged the bumper. Since the driver did not have a cell phone with him, he used one from the public safety officer to call for a tow truck. The man claimed he had lost focus in an effort to avoid hitting a cyclist.

Jumping the gun on leaf blower use

Three more landscapers were ticketed $271 each September 15 and 19 for using a leaf blower before the start of the fall season October 1, Public Security officials said last week. All three had been warned before and were described as "well aware of the by-law." They were caught while working on Rosemount, Montrose and Upper Belmont. The tickets came on the heels of three others issued the previous week (see story September 20, p. 17).

Hydro work ends on Grosvenor near Roslyn School with temporary asphalt

BY LAUREEN SWEENEY

Hydro Westmount work on Grosvenor Ave. outside Roslyn School was completed recently after closing the sidewalk, which created difficult access for students returning after the summer. Both police and public safety officers have been on hand to assist.

Temporary asphalt was put on the damaged sidewalks on Thursday (September 15), said Hydro Westmount director Benoit Hurtubise.

While the addition of new hydro cables and conduits was part of the reconstruction of Westmount Ave., a series of complications led to the work coinciding with the return to school, Hurtubise said.

"We re-engineered the back-up network in that area to distribute the load more evenly. This operation was time sensitive as we could not leave that area without reserve circuits." As a result, the sidewalk had to be dug up to install the new underground circuits.

"The sidewalks will be redone in a few weeks," he said. This is to take place "once the school is finished with the playground work as the sidewalks also need to be redone in that section." This work would be "coordinated with school officials."

The school grounds have been undergoing a major facelift since the beginning of July (see story June 7, p. 1).

Slips off new Prince Albert sidewalk

A resident of Prince Albert fell on the newly built sidewalk outside number 383 September 16, according to Public Security officials. She was reported to have been walking too close to the curb and had slipped off. Urgences Santé took her to the Glen site super-hospital for treatment of a swollen right temple and a cut on the forehead. The mishap occurred at around 3:24 pm.

ther English or French versions.

Westmount currently has 1,189 dogs registered, of which 183 live just outside the city limits but obtain licences here to be able to use the dog runs. Most are reported to live in eastern NDG or in the Ridgewood area.

Lulham said the city is not proposing to increase the cost of dog licences for next year.

After Public Security director Greg McBain and IT division head Claude Vallières met with representatives of Emili.net, they reported to council members July 4 during a meeting of the general committee that the system uses an identification tag with an integrated chip. This enables the tag to be read by an officer using a hand-held device.

The system will cost the city an annual fee of 25 cents per resident for the first year, amounting to about $5,000. The fee is lowered to 10 cents for the second and third years, estimated to be about $2,000.

In the minutes of the closed door committee session, it was reported that Councillor Philip Cutler recommended looking into the possibility of offering the system's lost and found program to other pet owners.

According to Lulham there were 1,006 dogs living in Westmount licensed this year at a cost of $30 each. The 183 non-resident dog owners paid $50 to obtain a Westmount licence to use Summit Woods and the fenced-in runs.

People who aren't users of the new permits system will still be able to report lost or found dogs to Public Security, as they can now, Lulham said.

WMA WEIGHS IN ON POOL OPENING

The Westmount Municipal Association (WMA), at its September 19 board meeting, passed a resolution calling for the swimming pool season to be extended. With climate change continuing, we have just experienced one of the warmest summers on record. The final day of summer feels more like early August than late September, with a high of 27 degrees C.

Westmount is fortunate to have a LEED Gold certified recreation centre that uses the waste heat from the ice-making process of the hockey rinks to heat the swimming pool. This essentially allows the pool to be heated without additional running costs.

The WMA therefore believes that it would benefit our increasingly aging population to open the pool as early as April, where we saw temperatures in the low 20s (C) this year, and extend the season into the fall. In the recent past, we have had Thanksgiving Day temperatures in the low 20s (C) also.

The board also supported the idea of keeping the pool open until 10 pm in the evening, one director noting that the old pool used to remain open sometimes until 9:45 pm.

We believe the logistical challenges of staffing the pool with lifeguards outside of the traditional student holidays can easily be overcome as other nearby communities, such as Cote St. Luc, are able to keep their pools open during these proposed extended times.

Noting that the debt incurred to build the Westmount recreation centre has been retired early, we believe Westmount taxpayers should be rewarded for their contributions with a facility that can benefit the community for a much longer period each year than has been the case since the pool was put into service.

REMEMBERS THE BRIDGE

This winter scene was the work of Constance Haines (1901-1977). She lived at 222 Prince Albert from 1950-1974 and took lessons from Adam Sherriff Scott.

I saw the recent article ("The first bridge in Westmount," September 13, p. 28) and thought you might be interested in seeing a painting. I remember the bridge as I frequently crossed it on my walks back and forth to school (the old Westmount Senior High School*).

St. Léon ‘time capsule’ archived at library for students in 2050

BY MARTIN C. BARRY

Thirty-four years from now, if all goes as planned, a Westmount Public Library archivist with access to a room about the size of a walk-in closet in the library tower will open a box containing writings by a group of grade six graduates who were enrolled in 2016 at St. Léon school.

Four of the former grade six students, who graduated in June and are now in grade 7, were on hand at the library on September 9 when the “time capsule” was placed on a shelf in the archive room by Lora Baiocco, the library’s official archivist.

The box contains letters written to future students who hopefully will open and read them in the year 2050.

According to Baiocco, this was the first time that a time capsule was placed in the archive, which contains a variety of documents pertaining to the history of the library and Westmount.

According to grade six teacher at St. Léon Isabelle Doré “We wanted to create a challenge for our students to imagine what life might look like in 2050, while writing a little bit about what their lives as students are like today and what’s important to them now.”

She explained that the project was one of the last tasks the students completed this past June before they graduated from the school. In all, three grade six classes with a total of 75 students took part.

WHA ‘strolls the streets of Westmount’ in fall series

The fall lecture series of the Westmount Historical Association will feature “strolling the streets of Westmount.”

In announcing the schedule, the program states that “Westmount’s streets have undergone many transformations over the years. This series focuses on three Westmount roads: Sherbrooke, Dorchester and the closed portion of Summit Circle. Their history will be followed, and interesting developments will be highlighted.”

The meetings take place on the third Thursday of the month from 7 to 9 pm in the Westmount Room of Westmount Public Library. They are open to non-members of the public at a cost of $5 a lecture.

The open first session, which took place September 15, explored the development of Sherbrooke, as discussed by historian Lorne Huston. (See story below.)

At the next meeting scheduled for October 20, District 8 councillor Theodora

Samiotis will explain the council’s “vision for restoring the urban fabric” in Westmount’s south-east area.

Along with WHA president Caroline Breslaw, she will describe how the Victorian residences on the north side were expropriated and demolished so the street could be widened.

The city’s plans for transforming the northern section of Summit Circle are to be discussed November 17 by Councillor Cynthia Lulham, commissioner of Parks and Sustainability, with city arborist Nicolas Mory. This uninhabited portion of Summit Circle was closed to traffic in 2009.

The final event of the season on December 15 will be a social evening at The Gallery of Victoria Hall for WHA members and invited guests to honour past president Doreen Lindsay. — LS

BY RALPH THOMPSON

The Westmount Historical Association’s (WHA) fall lecture series opened at the Westmount Public Library September 15 with the theme of the history and development of Sherbrooke St.

“The history of Sherbrooke St. can be broken down into four periods,” explained historian and WHA board member Lorne Huston: The early period, 1893 to 1914, 1920’s and after 1930.

Shortly after Sir John Coape Sherbrooke’s return to England in 1818 after his brief two-year term as governor in chief of British North America, “Sherbrooke St. was a short road running along the top of the Montreal escarpment,” said Huston. “...but there were two visions for development of western region of Montreal, which was at the time mainly agricultural. Some preferred that it remain agricultural and others wanted it developed. With the tramline extending only to Greene Ave. and the main road being Côte St. Antoine, there was little chance for development without an extended mass transit system.”

In the late 19th century, the tramline was extended to Victoria Ave., looping around

Horticultural society launches fall session

The Westmount Horticultural Society kicked off its fall monthly program September 13 with an address by photographer/gardener Reggie Millette on “How to avoid big mistakes when creating your garden.”

And in keeping with planning for the spring, the October 11 monthly meeting will hear about how to plant flowering bulbs to bloom indoors and outside. The guest lecturer is listed as David Wees of the Macdonald campus of McGill University in St. Anne de Bellevue.

The society’s monthly meetings are held on the second Tuesday of the month in the Westmount Room of Westmount Public Library starting at 7 pm. Non-members are welcomed at a cost of $5.

The session November 8 will start off with a short annual general meeting. This will be followed by a demonstration by Mark Reynolds on creative ideas for indoor gardening. These will include window gardens using hydroponic systems made from a variety of materials. Reynolds is studying herbal medicine at Concordia’s City Farm School.

The meeting on December 8 will take the form of a holiday party and wreath-decorating workshop, featuring floral arranger Orysia Krywiak. This takes place exceptionally at the Westmount Lawn Bowling Club at Sherbrooke and Kensington, adjacent to city hall. – LS and back along what is now Sherbrooke St. to Greene Ave. This established Westmount's main shopping areas, Victoria village and Greene Ave. Expansion quickly followed with Westmount Park opening for the Jubilee in 1897, the first luxury apartment building at 4168 Sherbrooke, synagogues and eventually an English Catholic church constructed by bypassing the archbishop of Montreal and obtaining permission directly from the pope. "It's interesting that Westmount along Sherbrooke St. was largely developed by 1930," said Huston who had consulted an aerial photograph from the period in the possession of Caroline Breslaw. In the early 20th century, architectural masterpieces by famous architect Robert Findlay and others (the library, Victoria Hall and city hall) were established in Westmount along one of the longest streets on island of Montreal - Sherbrooke St.

The WHA has three more lectures this fall. (See story, p. 10.) The fall walking tour, free, is scheduled to take place Sunday, October 16, starting at Queen Elizabeth Gardens west of Atwater. The English tour begins at 1 pm; the French tour at 1:30 pm.

Police Report

Clandeboye woman comes face to face with intruder

BY MARTIN C. BARRY

The following news story is based on information from police reports provided by a Station 12 constable in an interview with the reporter.

A Clandeboye Ave. woman who left her home unlocked while she stepped out for 15 minutes came face to face upon her return with a man who claimed he entered her house while pursuing a cat.

Following the incident on August 31, the woman told police she became aware of the intruder's presence after hearing noise coming from the second floor of her house.

"She then came face to face with an individual, who was at the top of the stairs," said Constable Adalbert Pimentel with local Station 12.

According to the police report, the suspect told her he entered the house in order to catch a cat that had gone in. "The plaintiff then asked the suspect to leave, which he slowly did," Pimentel said.

Further investigation by the police failed to turn up any evidence of the presence of a cat.

A few hours after the suspect left, the plaintiff noticed that some money she kept on a table in a hallway was missing. Police are looking for an adult male, 5' 9", around 30 years old.

While Pimentel acknowledged that Station 12 has been dealing lately with more calls in Westmount's southeastern sector for infractions, such as publicly consuming alcohol and disorderly conduct, he said there's been no noticeable increase in burglaries.

On September 7, police from Station 12 succeeded in apprehending two men suspected of stealing a Subaru Outback SUV that had been parked the previous evening and overnight on Sherbrooke St. near the corner of Kitchener Ave.

The arrest was made before the owner of the Subaru was even aware that his vehicle had been stolen, said Pimentel.

Daycare broken into

A heatwave that swept through Montreal in early September, leading many people to leave their windows open, is believed to have been a contributing factor in a break-in that took place during the early hours of September 2 at a children's daycare on Hillside Ave.

According to a police report, a burglar alarm went off at the daycare at around half past midnight. Although an alarm company official responded, he left after finding that everything at the scene appeared to be normal.

But a daycare employee who turned up to open the facility around 6:30 am found two windows on one side of the building were open. While the employee also found a cupboard door ajar, nothing in it or elsewhere in the daycare appeared to have been stolen.

Upon further investigation, police officers found that an outer screen on one of the windows had been removed. They concluded that because of the weather someone at the daycare neglected to shut the windows at the end of the previous day.

An undisclosed amount of money was stolen from cash registers at a Greene Ave. business during a burglary committed between September 10 and 12, while the staff was away on Sunday.

After closing up around 5:30 pm on Saturday evening, the employee returned on Monday morning around 9:30 am to find that the business' rear entrance door wouldn't open normally. Entering through the front door, she found that the cash registers had been emptied.

"They don't know how someone got in because the alarm didn't go off," said Station 12 officer Stéphan Laperrière. He added that the only sign of forced entry was that the key to the rear door no longer worked as it should, suggesting the lock had been tampered with.

Homage to the Gewurzs raises funds for MADA

Social Notes

VERONICA REDGRAVE

Bob Perras' valet team valiantly managed the Manhattan-style traffic mayhem on Peel St. as guests arrived June 7 at Le Windsor for the homage to Brenda and Sam Gewurz. Some guests simply left their cars and walked a block to arrive on time through the traffic chaos.

In spite of initial disgruntlement around street construction, guests were soon smiling. The eve was amazing; it was held to raise funds for the MADA Community Centre. Arriving ladies wore smart cocktail suits or dresses.

Co-chairs were Renee Lieberman and Helen Cons. Amid the sartorially stylish were hard-working committee members, local res Diane and Jack Altman, Therese and Jacob Attias, Renee Baltuch, Wendy and Danny Bensoussan, Etty and Ralph Bienstock, Dale and Nat Boidman, Susan and Steven Cummings, David Douek, Penny and Gordon Echenberg, Julie Shugarman and Ilan Gewurz, Marc Gold, Michael Goodman, Saryl and Stephen Gross, Westmounters Marlene and Joel King, Dean Mendel, Joseph Paperman, Barry Pascal, Donald Pearson, Barbara and Stanley Plotnick, Mona and Sol Polachek, Danny Ritter, Bluma and Mark Rosenstein, Vivian and Howard Stotland and Susan and Jonathan Wener.

Westmounters noted enjoying the cocktail hour included Evi and Ralph Schachter, Susan and Peter Varadi, Meryl and Sheldon Elman, Barbara and Phil Silverberg, Sheila and Arthur Greenspoon, Marvin Epstein, Dana and William Bell, Helena and Eddie Wiltzer, Jane and Herschel Segal, Alta and Harvey Levenson and Arlene and Henri Abitan.

The Windsor's hallway and main room were decorated with simple bouquets: Charming yellow tulips poked out amidst bright sunflowers and white roses.

Both Gewurzs spoke eloquently about MADA, whose mission is to help people in need with the basic necessities of life while helping them become self-sufficient members of a community.

Emcee Ilan Gewurz (son of Brenda and Sam) introduced child prodigy pianist, Ethan Bortnick, who reportedly has raised over $40 million for charities around the world.

The audience of over 600 guests along with generous sponsors helped raise $2.2 million, which goes to MADA's capital campaign – the financing of its new community centre on Decarie. Last year, MADA served more than 330,000 meals and re-donated more than $1.6 million worth of food to other food banks and non-profit organizations in the city. Sponsors of the evening included founders ($500 to $999,000) – the Cons Family, Helen and Stanley, Debbie and Ronnie and Leslie and Michael) and Brenda and Samuel Gewurz, and benefactors ($200 to $499,000) Saryl and Stephen Gross and family, and the Mashaal family.

Muriel Gold on Art Westmount and more

Four get tickets totalling $745

Three young people at the Summit lookout September 14 were issued tickets for $149 for consuming alcohol, Public Security officials said. A fourth, who was not seen drinking, was ticketed $77 for possessing alcohol. One of the group was also given a ticket for $221 for failing to identify himself, which required police intervention. None lived in Westmount.

In two separate incidents September 14 and 15, patrollers issued tickets for $77 to four people for breaking the midnight park curfew, also at the lookout.

Hits parked car to avoid large truck

A patroller came across a northbound car that had hit another parked outside 451 Clarke September 14, Public Security officials said. The driver stated the accident occurred as she tried to avoid hitting a large oncoming truck heading south at about 1:16 pm. She was a Westmount resident.

HEATHER BLACK

This weekend, Art Westmount 2016 will showcase nine authors as well as artists at Victoria Hall. A first for the popular biennial event, I spoke to writer Muriel Gold on what visitors can expect, as well as her own interesting work.

On stage

At the suggestion of Gold and others, participation by Westmount authors at Art Westmount become a reality. For the first time, visitors to Victoria Hall will be able to browse published works and chat to Gold and her fellow authors: Marie-Andrée Cantillon, Susan Doherty, Mary Hagerman, Sidonie Kazenel (Kerr), Nicole Peretz, Cora Siré, Alfred Garson, and Donna Yates Adelman.

Visitors can attend a reading by each author, scheduled on either Saturday or Sunday afternoon in the Westmount Room of the Westmount Public Library.

As a writer, Gold is recognized for her work on Quebec theatre history. Named to the Order of Canada in 2007 for her contribution to drama and theatre, Gold was the artistic director of the Saidye Bronfman Centre Theatre from 1972 to 1980. There, with a belief that “drama can serve as a bridge between cultures,” she introduced Michel Tremblay’s novels to English theatre goers. Her book on the centre, A Gift for their Mother: The Saidye Bronfman Centre Theatre – A History, was published in 2007.

Gold continues to write on Quebec theatre and The Dramatic Legacy of Dorothy Davis and Violet Walters, The Montreal Children’s Theatre 1933-2009 was published in 2010. Her most recent book on Madame Jean-Louis Audet (Yvonne Duckett), “known for her acting studio,” is currently being published in French.

For her books, Gold draws on her own directing experience, such as the 2000 production of Sam Gesser’s Fineman’s Dictionary at Place des Arts, as well as her academic expertise. She holds a PhD in theatre from Concordia, as well as a MA in developmental drama from McGill.

Writer’s advocate

A former Theatre Arts instructor at Dawson, McGill and Concordia, Gold’s career as a writer started with a paper on her innovative acting technique “the fictional family.” First published in a British drama journal, when a colleague expressed his interest in knowing more, Gold replied: “Why, that would take a whole book!” However, she persevered and The Fictional Family in Drama, Education and Groupwork was published in 1991.
